

The Yellow / Orange / Red badges are used to give an indication of the levels of sex, violence and profanity in the book. It is completely subjective. I am not counting swear words, man and lady parts or anything else. I often don't even notice sex or profanity when it's appropriate to the book though my background has made me hyper-attuned to violence.

Sex / Steam

-  May contain some sexual allusions but an average person, applying contemporary community standards should not be offended.
-  Contains descriptions of sexual acts that are consistent with the story and not excessive in nature.
-  The book is mostly concerned with sex or has explicit descriptions of sex that some may find offensive.

Violence

-  May contain some low impact violence but an average person, applying contemporary community standards should not be offended.
-  Contains violence that, while consistent with the story, may be disturbing for some readers.
-  Contains a high level of violence that an average person would consider excessive.

Bad Language

-  May contain some bad language including low level profanity and blasphemy.
-  Contains moderate levels of bad language including more offensive words, but they are appropriate to the story and are not used excessively.
-  Contains high levels of bad language that an average person, applying contemporary community standards would probably find offensive.
